

SOVIET PLANE PASSES HALF-WAY MARK ON FLIGHT OVER POLE

Well On Its Way in Daring
6,000-Mile Nonstop Flight
From Moscow to 'Frisco

'EVERYTHING ALL RIGHT'

Plane Expected to Arrive at 'Frisco About 9 A. M.
Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, June 19—(INS)—The red-winged Soviet trans-Polar airplane, URSS N-025, early today passed the half-way mark in its daring 6,000-mile attempted nonstop flight over the North Pole from Moscow to San Francisco.

In a radio contact between the U. S. Army Signal Corps and the plane, its position was reported at 3.20 a. m., e. s. t., as having passed over the Pole and being approximately 414 miles from the San Francisco side.

"Everything is all right," the ship radioed.

On Army charts the flight course over the Pole from Moscow to San Francisco disclosed that the distance from the Soviet capital to the Pole is approximately 2,500 miles, and the distance from the Pole to San Francisco roughly 3,500 miles.

On a basis of the distance covered since the plane hopped off from Moscow at 8.05 p. m., e. s. t., Thursday night, it is averaging approximately 100 miles an hour, its normal cruising speed, and will arrive at San Francisco about nine a. m., e. s. t., tomorrow morning, if all goes well.

The U. S. Army's complete radio and weather reporting facilities in Alaska were placed at the service of the Soviet flyers and weather reports were being sent from six stations in America's northernmost outposts at quarter-hour intervals to guide the ship in its flight.

Three radio contacts were made between the plane and the army stations last night and early today.

The first, at 5.10 p. m., e. s. t., yesterday, signed by Navigator Beliaikov, stated:

"Everything is all right. My position is Ostrow Luidvi."

An hour later the plane asked for bearings and reported she was opposite Franz Josef land. It was flying at an altitude of 4,300 meters. Beliaikov asked:

"Please inform me what bearing you get. Everything is all right. My position is latitude 82 longitude 54.10 east. Altitude 4,300 meters."

Then at 9.10 p. m., e. s. t., the plane reported to the Anchorage, Alaska, station her position was 85 degrees latitude, 58 longitude east.

Russian sources here declared the ship is definitely out after the present nonstop record established in 1933 by Rossi and Codos, the Frenchmen who flew 5,657 miles from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, to Rayack, Syria.

TO DEDICATE LAKE IN NOCKAMIXON TWP

Lake Warren is 47 Acres in Size and Located on Tract of 1500 Acres

MANY PLAN TO ATTEND

DOYLESTOWN, June 19—Several thousand people are expected to attend the formal dedication of new Lake Warren in Nockamixon township tomorrow.

The lake, recently completed as a WPA project is located 18 miles north of Doylestown and about the same distance south of Easton, in one of the most picturesque sections of all Bucks county.

The dedication ceremony will be in charge of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, and will include an elk roast, rifle and trap shooting, swimming, canoe races, fly and bait casting, quills, band concert and the dedicatory address. The affair will be held rain or shine.

Lake Warren consists of an artificial body of water, 47 acres in size, located on a tract of 1500 acres of wild land, 229 acres of which is reserved as a refuge for wild life, where protection is given the year around to migratory birds and wild animal life, including rabbits, deer, ring necked pheasants, Hungarian partridge, woodcock and quail.

A 1937 souvenir program booklet has been issued for the dedication occasion by the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs headed by Charles A. Rowe, of Doylestown.

Swimming events will get under way at 2.45 p. m., but there will be something doing all day.

Lake Warren impounds the headwaters of Tinicum Creek. It is an unforeseen outcome of the movement started 20 years ago to establish an auxiliary game preserve in Bucks county, a movement that was launched by the Bucks County Fish, Game and Forestry Association. The tract now includes a state game refuge.

The probability of establishing Lake Warren was first realized by Game Protector Warren Fretz, of Doylestown, whose name it bears. Construction of the lake, with Federal fund aid cost $25,000.

A dyke 950 feet in length and eight feet high in the center holds back the creeks which enter Lake Warren through an extended marsh. Midway the dyke is supplied with a solidly constructed stone spillway. The lake's depth near the spillway is nine feet. A suitable boat landing has been built near the roadway, quantities of seeds of plants for duck food have been distributed along the natural shores, and the water is now being stocked with various species of food and game fish from state hatcheries.

Sportsmen of Bucks county are greatly indebted to Major Nicholas Biddle, of Jenkintown, president of the Board of Game Commissioners of Pennsylvania, and the officers of the Bureau of Refugees and Lands for their personal interests through whose efforts this great project became a reality.

CUTS ARM

Albert Dennis, 210 Mill street, suffered lacerations of the forearm, when that member went through a pane of glass. Ten stitches were required at Harriman Hospital.

Mediation Board Meets Steel Approval

Determined to bring the steel strike to a peaceful settlement, President Roosevelt authorized Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins, to appoint a mediation board to investigate and make recommendations, or even arbitrate. Lloyd K. Garrison (left), Dean of Law at the University of Wisconsin; Charles P. Taft (center), son of late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, and Edward F. McGrady (right), Assistant Secretary of Labor, were named.

RED CROSS TO ORGANIZE DISASTER GROUP

Meeting To Be Held Monday,
June 28th, in Philadelphia,
To Discuss Project

BUCKS CO. IS INCLUDED

PHILADELPHIA, June 19—One of the most important conferences in the history of the local Red Cross is scheduled in the Bellevue-Stratford on Monday, June 28th, at 12.30, when 700 men and women will assemble to inaugurate a new, important organization known as the Disaster Preparedness & Relief Committee of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter.

Each of the 53 Red Cross Branches in Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Chester counties, which with Philadelphia, constitute the Chapter territory, will be represented by the chairman, the newly-appointed Branch Chairman of Disaster Relief.

The purpose of the new committee is to equip the local Red Cross for instant, effective action if—or when—disaster strikes. Through a set-up of 11 major committees composed of men and women who are leaders in their respective fields, the resources and man-power of the entire community can be mobilized immediately to meet the sudden overwhelming and unpredictable emergencies arising from disaster. No time need be lost in organization; none wasted for instruction of volunteers. Simple in structure, effective in operation, the new Committee does not duplicate any of the regular Chapter organization.

J. Howard Pew, President of the Sun Oil Company, is Chairman of the Disaster Preparedness & Relief Committee for the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter. The office makes him the leader of a Red Cross service, now completely organized, that will deal with death and destruction left in the wake of explosions, fires, epidemics, floods, and other catastrophes that may occur in this territory.

Mr. Pew will preside at the meeting and introduce the principal speaker who will be Robert E. Bondy, National Director of Disaster Relief for the American Red Cross.

Mr. Bondy will outline the policy promulgated by the National Red Cross in the formation of the new Disaster Preparedness & Relief Committee which assures a more concerted plan of action between Washington and the various Chapters in times of emergency.

He will cite figures showing that within a period of ten years, the Red Cross has extended aid in an average of 82 disasters a year. These happen all over the country. No State or section is immune. Large cities, such as Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Louisville have been helped in overwhelming emergencies, as well as such second class cities as Hartford, Conn.; Springfield, Mass.; Manchester, N. H.; Lowell, Mass.; Johnstown, Pa.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Portsmouth, O.; Huntington, W. Va.; Evansville, Ind., and numerous others.

Mr. Bondy will show the necessity for competent, well-prepared Chapters to cope with emergencies that menace not only home and family life, but also the normal operations of the community. Chartered as it is by Congress to assume the care of needy families who endure the effects of disaster, the Red Cross has occasion to utilize the help of every citizen. The new plan of disaster organization is applicable to all types of calamities.

The Committees functioning under Mr. Pew are Survey, Rescue, Medical Aid, Shelter, Food, Clothing, Transportation, Communication, Registration and Information, Fund Raising, Public Information and Rehabilitation.

The Survey Committee will visit an affected area immediately after a disaster, determine its scope, ascertain the number of dead, injured and homeless examine conditions of roads and bridges, and estimate what relief funds are needed.

BUCKS CO. LASS RIDES FAMED DIVING HORSES

Leona Miller, 17, of Quaker-town, Receives Acclaim at Shore Resort

IN HIGH DIVE TODAY

QUAKERTOWN, June 19—A slight local lass, Leona Miller, at 17 years of age, is one of the chief attractions at an amusement center in Atlantic City, N. J., this year.

Miss Miller is a member of the group which performs on the world-famous diving horses owned by Madame Lorcena Carver.

The local Miss has already made several dives from the low boards in Atlantic City, N. J., and has won the rousing plaudits of the crowd. Today is her big day, for Miss Miller will have her opportunity of making the high dive.

Madame Carver's troupe of diving horses has been performing for several years in Atlantic City, and opened the season there several weeks ago. Miss Miller, the local girl, is a daring rider. This daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Miller for several years started on radio programs over station WSNB-WCBA, as a member of the Lone Star Cowboys group.

The two new horses added to the Carver Winter headquarters here are Arion and Pasha Alexander. In telling something of the names chosen for the horses, Madame Carver had this to say:

"Arion is an Oklahoma Indian horse. He was named after the famous Arion of Greek mythology, the horse which is supposed to have surpassed all others in intelligence."

"But can this Arion talk?" she was asked, for the mythical Arion was famed mostly for his ability to speak. "No," she said laughingly, "but wait. He's going to be able to do more than talk before we're finished with him. In fact, he already does something the other Arion was unable to do—he dives."

Pasha Alexander, an Arabian beauty, was named in honor of a chief engineer for the Bell Telephone Co.

DO YOU REMEMBER THE DAYS WHEN THE BICYCLING FAD WAS AT ITS HEIGHT HERE?

The bicycling fad being revived in Bristol and the country as a whole, recalls the days of Gay 90's, when Bristol was aswarm with 'cyclists, and when the handlebar moustaches were in vogue.

In telling of that gay period, and the popularity of the bicycle in Bristol, the "Easton Express," in its issue of Tuesday last reprinted a news item from the Northampton County Democrat of May 14, 1897, which reads as follows:

"Twenty-one hundred wheels passed through Bristol, Pa. At six o'clock Sunday night. There was not a speck of ice cream, a cookie or a swallow of ginger ale to be had in Bristol. The beautiful weather lured 2,100 by actual count to this place. There were women in bloomers; women in short skirts; women who wore leggings and those who didn't. Giddy girls and demure young women but the largest number of the crowd was made up of

ENROLLMENT TOTALS GIVEN FOR LANGHORNE

Number of High School Students in Past Term Was 275; Goodly Increase

569 GRADUATES TO DATE

LANGHORNE, June 19—Facts and figures relating to student enrollment, number of graduates, etc., at Langhorne-Middletown high school, are made public by members of the board of directors and supervising principal, William A. Thomas.

The total high school enrollment for the past term was 275, comparing favorably with 256 for the term of 1935-36. The year previous to that, 1934-35, the enrollment was 277; in 1933-34, it was 256; and in 1932-33, the enrollment was 217.

This shows an increase from the 1932-33 term to the 1936-37 term of 58 pupils.

The number of graduates in the class of 1933 was 33; in 1934, it was 38; and in 1935 increased to 49. A drop of one, or 48, was shown in the class finishing in June of 1936; and this year the total was 36.

The total number of graduates up to and including the class of 1933 was 398; in 1934, 436; in 1935, 485; in 1936, 533; and in 1937, 569.

A goodly percentage of the class which received diplomas on Thursday evening at commencement exercises in the Casino at South Langhorne, plan to continue their studies at institutions of higher learning.

Thomas, supervising principal, English; Garvin Peffer, assistant principal, mathematics, science; Charles Beck, science; William Breuninger, social studies, health; Anna Corn, commercial studies; Isabelle Davis, French, English; Charles Shane, supervisor of music (grades and high school), English; Georgiana Staehle, social studies; Enid Stage, Latin, English.

W. P. A. MEN OBJECT TO NEW RULE MAKING THEM PAY CARFARE

Men Gather in Groups and Discuss the Situation at Warrington

IT COSTS $2.60 WEEKLY

Report Stated That 2 Bosses
Had Been Fired Off
The Job

DOYLESTOWN, June 19—The new rule effective for WPA workers caused a lot of dissatisfaction among the WPA employees coming into Bucks County from Philadelphia. The workers milled around in circles at various road intersections, complaining about the new rule which started yesterday. Under the new ruling they are compelled to pay their own carfare from Philadelphia to Bucks County railroad stations if they want to work "on the government" in the future.

At Warrington forty or fifty of the workers, imported from Philadelphia, declared openly that they missed their "free rides" from Philly to Bucks county and many of them threatened to strike or quit entirely rather than pay their own carfare.

"Before election I was making $30 a week in my capacity on a WPA job and now I'm making only $17.50 a week and have a family to support," said one of the men with one of the better jobs this morning as he talked to a friend who gave him "a lift" from the Ivyland station to the Warrington section.

"Yes, I was a Democrat at the last election, but..." he continued.

The imported Philadelphia workers are now charged 65 cents a round trip to come to Bucks county. Some of them travel on the regular scheduled trains while others have "chipped in," bought cheap cars and are driving to Bucks county to escape the carfare which amounts to $2.60 a week. None, however, can ride on the WPA "specials" any longer, for they are not running.

Warrington seemed to be the distributing point for the various workers yesterday, but at noon there were still 40 or 50 standing around, doing nothing, but mumbling to themselves.

It was reported that two bosses had been fired and the workers had no place to go, and more than that, cared less it seemed.

Under the present schedule, one worker explained, the most that can be made on the WPA job now is approximately $60 a month, and starting today $2.60 a week must be paid out of the top wage of $60 or any smaller wage, for carfare.

HE WILL BE DISAPPOINTED

The vicar of Darlington says he intends to come here and lecture on why he married the Duke and Wally in defiance of the attitude of his church. He gives as another reason for an American visit a desire to rest, and perhaps a rest is what he needs, though this may not be the country for it, particularly if it is to be sandwiched between platform dates.

The British lecturer who looks on the old American colonies as a happy hunting ground is a type and a byword among us, and while Britons of substance and continuing reputation in science and the arts have added greatly to our store of knowledge and to our understanding, we do suffer considerably from the others—the one-novel novelists, the fashionable playwright, the second-rate actresses, the problem child of a leading politician, and Shaw who suffers vertigo from looking down on us. Many Americans thought the little vicar rescued the British name for sportsmanship from a nasty spot, and admired him greatly for it, and still would put an American lecture by him on the list of things they could afford to miss.

P. G. Wodehouse, after spending a year of idleness in Hollywood, returned home with $52,000 and an air of humorous bewilderment. It is too bad that he mentioned it, for a great many foreigners are anxious to be perplexed in the same fashion. Not that the vicar's visit would be quite as lucrative. At the moment we can think of nothing deadier, as a topic one would pay to hear discussed, than the romance of the Duke and Wally. As a race we forget easily, and the wedding was last month's business.

A NATION OF BILLIONAIRES

The cost of living is increasing faster than at any time in statistical history, except during the Civil and World wars. Food, rents, clothing, as well as luxuries, are increasing in cost—not to mention the fifty per cent increase in the price of postage stamps during the depression—with the result that public employees and school teachers are seeking to boost their incomes, resulting in higher—if possible—taxes.

Higher taxes, in turn, will mean still higher rents and quotations for food, clothing and luxuries. Strikes by laborers who think they are worth their hire and then some add to the momentum of the increasing cost of living.

This time prosperity, judged by the price level, is going to be the real McCoy, and no mistake. Instead of adopting the Bryan panacea of silver for prosperity, we are in danger of going off the silver standard entirely as the New Prosperity gets into full swing. A dollar threatens to be the smallest unit of the wherewithal for which there will be any demand, and ten and twenty dollar bills will be used merely for the changing of the hundred-dollar denomination.

Prosperity is coming fast. The politician who wants to capitalize on it will be forced to run on a platform of 10 hours work a week for $100 a day minimum pay.

Read things carefully: The typical American gets maddest at something he thought he saw in a newspaper.

The new Russian community at the Pole has been on an ice floe three weeks now, and hasn't floated a bond issue.

U. S. EXPORTS BERMUDA ONIONS

AMHERST, Mass.—(INS)—America is now exporting Bermuda onions instead of importing them.

Principal foreign markets for American onions of all types are in the western hemisphere, Cuba, Panama, Latin America and the West Indies, according to Ellsworth W. Bell, extension economist at Massachusetts State College. They take more than half the exports. Canada has recently entered the market as a large buyer, and during 1936 Great Britain purchased onions in this country.

In 1936, America imported 480,000 bushels and exported 525,000. Last year, only 50,000 bushels were imported, and 785,000 bushels were exported.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1937.

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—Lights! Camera! Action! Last day of a picture, if it has gone off well, is like the last day of school before the summer vacation.

There isn't much work done and everybody is in a good humor.

On the "First Lady" set at Warner Brothers this week, the actors are positively kittenish. Director Stanley Logan is trying to get a scene of Louise Fazenda, Marjorie Rambeau and Marjorie Gatensohn listening to Walter Connolly announce he won't run for the presidency of the United States. Which leaves the nomination open for Preston Foster, Kay Francis' husband in the picture.

The first time they rehearse it, Louise Fazenda pretends she feels a bug crawling up her leg. She shakes it, Keystone comedy fashion, and squeaks:

"Yee, it feels like a centipede."

The second rehearsal is going well when Marjorie Gatensohn suddenly pinches her neighbor, Miss Rambeau. These sophisticated Hollywoodites shriek with laughter.

Even Kay Francis is not exempt from the horseplay. She has picked a big floppy hat to wear in a forthcoming scene. The company takes one look at it and hoots. "Well, I like it," says Kay—but she sends to the wardrobe department for another hat.

It is a field day for the company's still-man, with his candid camera. He frames it with Preston Foster to pretend that he is going to kiss Verree Teasdale goodbye. She jerks her head away and cries: "No, my husband will kill me!"

Nice congenial work the movies, if you don't mind wearing yourself out for a measly three thousand dollars a week.

On another stage at Warners, they are shooting a picture, "The Perfect Specimen". Errol Flynn, a young man whose family has raised him to have all the virtues and all the accomplishments, is believed to have been kidnapped. Actually, he is only out on a lark with Joan Blondell, but the family is in a dither.

They have summoned the law and a number of actors are on the stage dressed as state policemen.

Eddie Horton, deep in a book, also is waiting his call.

They are ready to take the scene. The voice of Assistant Director Frank Heath booms out:

"All troopers on the set!"

Started, Horton drops his book and hurries into the scene.

Everybody starts laughing and he looks sheepish.

"Oh, dear," he says, "I thought you said 'troopers'."

For the picture, "Hurricane", Samuel Goldwyn has brought the south seas to Hollywood. On a sound stage at United Artists is a replica of a small island surrounded by a lagoon. The trees are perfect reproductions because they were constructed from plaster paris moulds made of real coconut palms in the south seas. A research crew even made moulds of ledges of rocks.

This particular scene is of Dorothy Lamour, a native girl in the picture, standing on a rock and spear-fishing.

Dorothy is supposed to be like a mermaid in the story. In reality, she gets dizzy as soon as she steps into cold water.

When Director John Ford is ready to take the scene, she goes up to the edge of the lagoon, sticks her toe in and gasps.

But she wades bravely out to the rock and poses with a pronged fishing spear in her hand. She is scintillating in a sarong and she shivers when they turn on the wind machines. Property men also are making waves in the water, and when one of them laps too high, Dorothy pleads:

"Hey, stop that."

A minute later, when they take the scene, she stands like a young goddess, hurls the spear and plunges into the water to retrieve the fish.

On the screen it will look as if she did it every day in her life.

The tail-end Grundy mill team played heads-up baseball to hold the St. Ann's A. A. nine to a 2-2 deadlock last evening on the Maple Beach diamond. The game was called at the end of the sixth because of darkness.

Six hits were registered by both clubs. For St. Ann's, Sagolla and Bauroth had two safe blows each while for the Grundy team, Lefty Di-Tanna had a triple and single. The two hits for Sagolla marked the end of his losing streak.

Hines struck out seven and walked two. Narcisi had one strikeout and issued two passes.

DELIA APPEARS TO BE IN FINE FIGHTING SHAPE

Facing his toughest opponent of the season, Vince Delia, St. Ann's south-paw fighter, appears in fine shape for his bout Monday night in the St. Ann's outdoor arena, Wood and Franklin streets. Twelve bouts have been carded by matchmaker Sammy Moffo with the approval of the Middle Atlantic district of the A. A. U.

Delia's foe is none other than Herbie White, East Side warrior, former Middle Atlantic 126 pound champion. White has one of the most vicious right hands in the amateur circles and is out to kyo the Purple and Gold fighter. Delia has already met two stiff foes in Jimmy Riddle and Benny Arizzi. The St. Ann's fighter had both of these boys on the floor, but on both occasions the decision was very close.

Matchmaker Moffo has announced a change in the opponent for Willie Leighton. Leighton was originally scheduled to fight Herman Matteo but his opponent now will be Johnny Marchione, Pennmar Club. Marchione has won four straight bouts. Leighton has a record of three wins and one defeat for this season. He has won his last three fights.

A local 118-pounder, Joseph Ferrara, who was victorious in his initial start, three weeks ago, comes back to meet Johnny Perranto, Seymour, in the first bout of the night. Ferrara and Perranto are both novices and this should be a hard-fought battle.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the St. Ann's clubhouse and can be secured by phoning 9934.

TWO OLD RIVAL TEAMS TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

The Landreth nine has again struck its stride and the team is coming back strong. Tomorrow two old rival factions, the Burlington club and the Landreth team will clash at Landreth ball park at three o'clock.

The game tomorrow is sure to be a good one and one which will be bitterly contested, as each manager is determined to win.

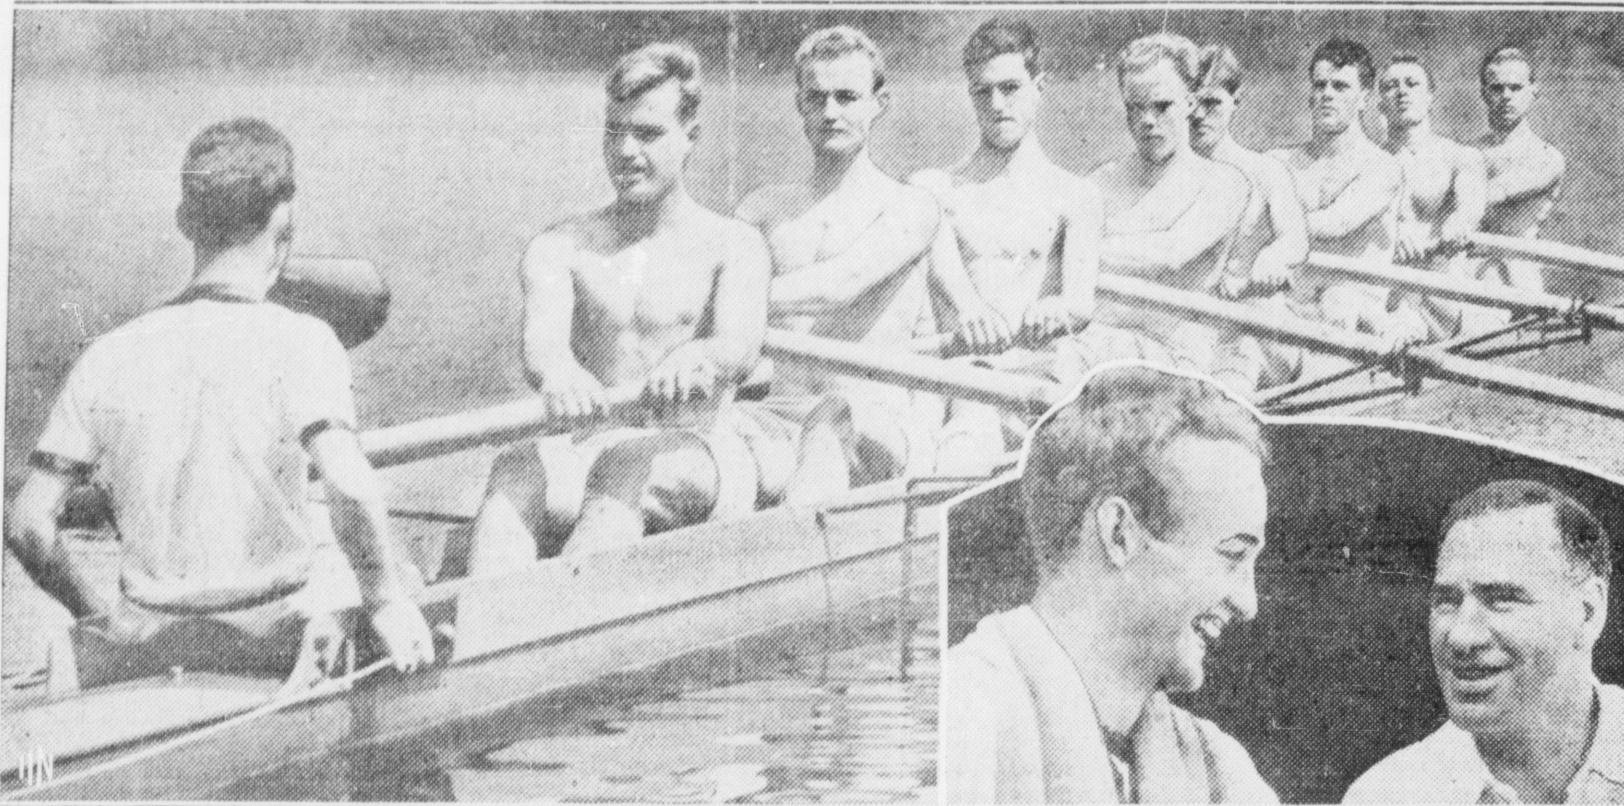

The crowd at the game tomorrow is expected to be the largest of the season as there has always been keen rivalry between the two towns.

QUALIFICATION TRIALS OPEN AT LANGHORNE

This morning qualification time trials are scheduled to begin at the Langhorne Speedway when from a field of more than 50, the 22 fastest cars and drivers will be selected to take the flag in the competitive events which will start at 3.15 this afternoon. Five 10-mile heat races will precede a 50-mile final feature in which the winning cars in the earlier events will be eligible to start.

Langhorne Speedway, world's fastest mile auto racing course, will ring down the curtain on 1937 activities this afternoon when more than a half hundred knights of the roaring road figure in a six event, 100 mile program of gasoline competition.

More than a dozen of the speed notables to bid for a share of the bulky cash purses are Indianapolis speedway stars, several of them money winners in the last 500 mile grind on Memorial Day. Heading the invading group is Mauri Rose of Columbus, Ohio, the national champion and one of the most popular figures in sanctioned racing.

Not in the history of eastern automobile races has a greater field of crack star drivers been assembled on a circular track in the east than the veteran promoter, Ralph A. Hankinson has assembled for his final speed fiesta of the season at Langhorne, in the opinion of Joe Dawson, zone supervisor of the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

Matching the prestige of the Indianapolis star drivers will be the records for daredevilry established by eastern pilots this season. Ben Shaw of Westville, N. J., who set a new world's record for the mile at Langhorne this spring, has spent three weeks preparing his machine for a new onslaught on the world's marks. Frankie Bailey, the 1936 champ, will be back in the running for the first time since his near fatal crash on May 16. Frankie Beeder, top ranking driver in the east will be there with his great Cragar car and he will be supported by the biggest field of hard riding daredevils that ever scorched the big Langhorne circle.

Drivers and cars entered include: Mauri Rose, Miller, Columbus, Ohio; Billy DeVore, Miller, Kansas City; Billy Winn, Miller, Detroit; Ted Horn, Miller, Los Angeles; George Connor, Miller, San Bernardino, Cal.; Roy Lake, McDowell, Burbank, Cal.; Duke Nalon, Miller, Chicago; Bob Sall, Miller, Paterson, N. ## LANDRETH SEEDS UPSETS MANNINGTON MILLS NINE Revenge must taste sweet to the Landreth Seeds baseball nine.

Last night on their home diamond, the Landrethmen avenged an early season defeat at the hands of the Mannington Mills club, by scoring a 6-4 victory after the visiting club had held a 4-3 edge going into the last half of the seventh. It marked the fourth time this season that the Farmers had upset a club which had scored a triumph over them earlier in the season. The club from Salem came here last night determined to make a clean sweep of the two-game series. It is true that they hammered the horsehide hard, and collected a total of 14 safe blows, but the inner cordon of the home club held up beautifully and staved off many threatening rallies by the Salemites.

'REDS' GALLAGHER TOSSES HIBERNIANS TO VICTORY

"Reds" Gallagher, former Bristol High hurler, was in excellent form last night on Leedom's field as he pitched the Hibernians to their fifth victory in their last six starts. Gallagher set down the Rohm & Haas team with three hits and fanned 12 as the final tabulations read: Hibernians, 2; Rohm & Haas, 1.

Gallagher had to be good to subdue the chemical mixers, for Andy Pfaffenrath who was on the mound for the losers, also had his curve working and his mixture of pitches held the league leaders to five hits. An error by Mas-silla paved the way for the Hibboes' winning marker.

FIRST TITLE DEFENSE TO BE LAST FOR CHAMP

By Davis J. Walsh
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, June 18—(INS)—They say that James J. Braddock will make a half million out of his heavyweight championship fight with Joe Louis here on the night of the twenty-second, which is a nice thing to know because Braddock is a great and very gallant guy—and he figures to get his intellect scattered all over the joint. I hate to say it, in fact, but I don't think Braddock has a chance.

He's old, he's slow, he probably never was any great shakes of a fighter in the first place. In the second, he hasn't fought in two years and, at 31, that ought to be fatal.

In other words, Louis may have eaten and slept himself out of the form he had a couple of years ago, but he can't have gone back so far that a man like Braddock would have better than one chance in three against him. The only chance James J. Braddock seems to have is that he's game and tough—and that Louis not only can be nailed with a right hand punch, but is likely to stay nailed. Off his performance in the Schmelling fight, it seems evident that the colored boy doesn't take a punch any better than the average chorus man.

However, he has very rapid hands, and it is difficult to believe that he won't beat Braddock to the punch—any punch, in fact, that he cares to start. He's just too quick for this staid, conservative family man who won the heavyweight championship more or less by mistake and has held it more or less by sufferance.

Braddock, indeed, came to the championship, not by one mistake, but by a series.

Coming off the dole, he might have been knocked out by Corn Griffin on the Baer-Carnera card but, instead, got up, landed a right hand punch and ultimately won by a knockout. He would have lost to John Henry Lewis except that the latter blew three or four rounds on foul punches. He would have lost to Art Lasky, only the latter had a bad right hand, had it "doctored" too early in the afternoon and finally had to stop punching after the tenth round.

This put Braddock in with Max Baer, who was 10-1 in the betting. The only trouble was that Baer not only had one bad hand, but two, with the result that he spent fifteen rounds trying to scare Braddock out of the championship. It didn't work. In fact, on the theory that you can't hurt anybody you don't hit, Baer couldn't have beaten a one-armed Confederate soldier that night.

The thing, all told, was terrible, its only virtue being the miracle of Braddock's ascendancy to the heavyweight championship. He's defending it now for the first time, and one cannot help thinking, the last.

What else can you think about a man whose record shows that he's blown twenty decisions, many of them to out and out clumps.

RAINY THEATER

BOSTON—(INS)—It was a bitter rainy night. A number of persons had probably gone to the "movies" to escape the rain. In a Bowdoin square theatre some 750 patrons were amazed to find water pouring from the ceiling. Although there was no fire, the sprinkler system had decided it was time to let loose. A majority of the patrons suffered wet feet in the rush for exits and one girl fainted.
